Vanguard Global Corporate Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

The fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Float Adjusted Corporate Index Hedged, a market-weighted index of global corporate fixed income investments with maturities greater than 1 year.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2025, global financial markets were largely influenced by shifts in trade policy, a decline in the US dollar and more expansive fiscal policy in Europe.
- Early in the period, optimism in the US about the prospect of further deregulation, tax cuts and robust corporate earnings was at times tempered by market concerns about interest rates, stretched equity valuations and the potential inflationary impact of tariffs. European equities posted a strong first quarter, supported by more attractive valuations, a dovish central bank policy path and the passage of a stimulative fiscal package in Germany. Although the second quarter began with a spike in volatility triggered by the US announcing an array of tariffs, global equity markets went on to show resilience.
- With inflation still running above target and continued uncertainty about tariff impacts, the US Federal Reserve kept short-term interest rates at 4.25%–4.50%. Meanwhile, policymakers in Europe adopted a more accommodative monetary stance: The European Central Bank cut its primary policy interest rate four times, to 2.0%, during the first half of the year, and the Bank of England trimmed the Bank Rate twice, to 4.25%.
- Global bonds posted gains for the six months on a hedged basis.
- The fund's benchmark, which is hedged to the US dollar, returned 3.79% for the period.
- By market, the United States, which has the largest weighting in the index, outperformed the index as a whole. Australia also outperformed. Other index heavyweights, including the Netherlands, Spain, Japan and Germany, underperformed.
- By sector, bonds issued by financial institutions fared better than those issued by industrial companies and utilities.
- From a credit-quality perspective, bonds on the bottom rung of the investment-grade ladder tended to perform better than their higher-rated counterparts. By maturity, results were mixed, but in general shorter-dated bonds performed best.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.

Vanguard Global Credit Bond Fund

Managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

This fund seeks to provide a moderate and sustainable level of current income by investing in a diversified portfolio of global credit fixed income bonds.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements. The fund is actively managed and seeks to invest as described in the prospectus. The following performance information shows how the fund's returns compare with those of the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Credit Index Hedged, a market index that has investment characteristics similar to those of the fund.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2025, global financial markets were largely influenced by shifts in trade policy, a decline in the US dollar and more expansive fiscal policy in Europe.
- Early in the period, optimism in the US about the prospect of further deregulation, tax cuts and robust corporate earnings was at times tempered by market concerns about interest rates, stretched equity valuations and the potential inflationary impact of tariffs. European equities posted a strong first quarter, supported by more attractive valuations, a dovish central bank policy path and the passage of a stimulative fiscal package in Germany. Although the second quarter began with a spike in volatility triggered by the US announcing an array of tariffs, global equity markets went on to show resilience.
- With inflation still running above target and continued uncertainty about tariff impacts, the US Federal Reserve kept its target for short-term interest rates at 4.25%–4.50%. Meanwhile, policymakers in Europe adopted a more accommodative monetary stance: The European Central Bank cut its primary policy interest rate four times, to 2.0%, during the first half of the year, and the Bank of England trimmed the Bank Rate twice, to 4.25%.
- Global bonds returned 7.27% for the six months, as measured by the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index in US dollars on an unhedged basis. The decline of the US dollar boosted returns for non-US bonds in particular.
- The fund (which is hedged in US dollars) returned 3.93% for the period, outpacing the 3.61% return of its benchmark.
- For the fund, greater credit exposure versus the benchmark added value as credit spreads tightened in the wake of tariff-related volatility. Sector and security selection across European investment-grade corporates also helped, specifically among financials and UK water issuers.
- Security selection in emerging markets was another bright spot, but underweight allocations to Saudi Arabia and Panama detracted.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

Vanguard Global Short-Term Bond Index Fund

Managed by Vanguard Asset Management, Limited.

Investment Objective

This fund seeks to provide returns consistent with the performance of the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Ex US MBS 1–5 Year Float Adjusted and Scaled Index, a market-weighted index of global government, government-related agency, corporate and securitised bonds, excluding US mortgage-backed securities, with maturities between 1 and 5 years.

Performance Summary

The Performance Summary does not form part of the Financial Statements.

- For the six months ended 30 June 2025, global financial markets were largely influenced by shifts in trade policy, a decline in the US dollar and more expansive fiscal policy in Europe.
- Early in the period, optimism in the US about the prospect of further deregulation, tax cuts and robust corporate earnings was at times tempered by market concerns about interest rates, stretched equity valuations and the potential inflationary impact of tariffs. European equities posted a strong first quarter, supported by more attractive valuations, a dovish central bank policy path and the passage of a stimulative fiscal package in Germany. Although the second quarter began with a spike in volatility triggered by the US announcing an array of tariffs, global equity markets went on to show resilience.
- With inflation still running above target and continued uncertainty about tariff impacts, the US Federal Reserve kept its target for short-term interest rates at 4.25%–4.50%. Meanwhile, policymakers in Europe adopted a more accommodative monetary stance: The European Central Bank cut its primary policy interest rate four times, to 2.0%, during the first half of the year, and the Bank of England trimmed the Bank Rate twice, to 4.25%.
- Global bonds returned 7.27% for the six months, as measured by the Bloomberg Global Aggregate Index in US dollars on an unhedged basis. The decline of the US dollar boosted returns for non-US bonds in particular.
- The fund's benchmark, which is hedged to the US dollar, returned 3.28% for the period.
- By country, the United States, which has the largest weighting in the index, performed better than the index as a whole. Other outperformers included Mexico, Poland and Australia. Japan, China and Germany were among the laggards.
- By sector, corporate bonds and especially those issued by financial institutions fared better than government bonds.
- By credit quality, bonds on the bottom rung of the investment-grade ladder fared better than their higher-rated counterparts.

Benchmark returns in the commentary above are in US dollars.

All of the returns in this report represent past performance, which is not a guarantee of future results that may be achieved by the fund. For performance data current to the most recent month-end, which may be higher or lower than that cited, visit our website at <http://global.vanguard.com>. Note, too, that both investment returns and principal value can fluctuate widely, so an investor's shares, when sold, could be worth more or less than their original cost.

* The tracking difference between the fund return and the index return over a stated period of time can be attributed to a number of factors, including, without limitation, small differences in weightings, trading activity, swing pricing, transaction costs and differences in the valuation and withholding tax treatment between the fund and the index vendor.
